FEBRUARY

February is upon us and the end of winter is in sight. At least one more cold month and hopefully the springtime weather can begin.

For more than 40 years the month of February has been Black History Month. Black History Month is an annual celebration of achievements by African Americans and a time for recognizing their central role in U.S. history.

Our state of Georgia has a lot of places to learn about African American history. Our state has been at the epicenter of the civil rights movement and has produced some of the most famous and impactful figures of the era.

Check out the link to the right to learn more about African American history in Georgia .

JOHNNY'S ADVICE

We must do all we can to prevent trash and other debris from entering our streams and waterways. From cigarette butts to soda cans we all see the trash on the sides of the roads that eventually makes its way to our waterways. When it does it can kill wildlife and cause flooding. Like Hootie the Owl says "Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute"

MAYOR'S CORNER

MAYOR LINDA BLECHINGER

As Mayor of the City of Auburn, I love this town. I believe this is the best place to live, work, and play in the State! Here are some fun facts about the City of Auburn you may not have known:

- Founded in 1892, the City of Auburn was established before Barrow County was founded.
- The rail road laid out the street pattern (the map hangs in the council chambers).
- Primarily a farming community the city of Auburn had the first telephone in the area that was used by many around the area to communicate long distance.
- In the late 1800s, Auburn was known as a college town! Auburn was home to the Perry Rainey Institute (founded 1892), an all-women's college.
- The building that sits adjacent to the elementary school was built as the dormitory to the college in 1902. The City of Auburn purchased the building and now it is a great space for citizens and the City to hold events called the Perry Rainey Center.

We are just beginning another year in the history of Auburn with February upon us and the city is busy planning for the all of the activities of the year. We are proud to have such a family-friendly community with a welcoming downtown area. Our merchants offer unique gifts and services. Come down and check them out!

Have you thought of becoming involved with your community? The City of Auburn has a great many opportunities for you. No matter your interests, there is a volunteer opportunity for you. We offer events throughout the year and welcome community participation in the planning and running of the events. Mark your calendars for these awesome events!
