Serving You Better

Auburn's Customer Service Team at Work

At the City of Auburn, providing responsive, dependable customer service is a top priority. Our Customer Service team works daily to ensure residents and businesses receive accurate information, timely assistance, and support you can count on—whether you have a question about your utility bill, need help with an account, or simply want clarity on city services.

To help you stay on track, here is a friendly reminder about our billing schedule: utility bills are mailed by the 1st of each month, payments are due on the 15th, late fees are applied on the 16th, the 25th is the last day to pay, and service cutoffs for non-payment begin on the 26th. Keeping these dates in mind helps avoid additional charges or service interruptions.

We're also excited to offer a new, convenient way to reach us. Auburn now has a Customer Service text line, allowing you to text a question or request a call back at your convenience. Simply text (943) 291-8408, and a member of our team will be happy to assist you with any billing or account-related questions.

Our goal is simple: to make city services easy to navigate and to ensure your needs are taken care of promptly and professionally. Thank you for allowing the City of Auburn to serve you.

"Being able to text a quick question and get a call back makes taking care of my bill incredibly easy—it's convenient, fast, and fits right into my day."- P.L.

Customer Service Team Member: Sydnee

My name is Sydnee, and I am 20 years old. I have been proud to serve the City of Auburn since September 2024, where I have found meaningful opportunities to give back to the community I call home. In addition to my work with the City, I also coach volleyball, a role that allows me to mentor, encourage, and support others—something I am deeply passionate about.

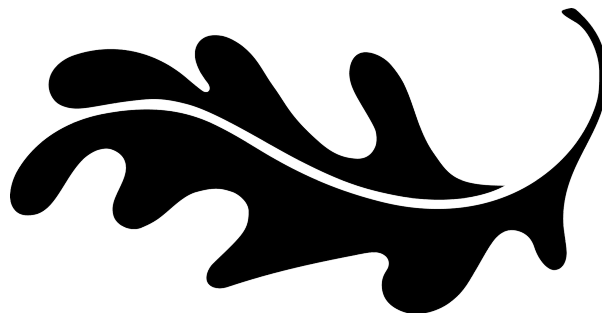

I have been involved with the Auburn Explorers program since I was 15 years old, and that experience played a significant role in shaping who I am today. Through the program, I gained valuable insight into public service, teamwork, and leadership, and it helped solidify my desire to serve my community in a hands-on way.

Public service has always been close to my heart, largely because of my dad, who serves as a Police Sergeant. Watching his dedication, integrity, and passion for helping others inspired me to develop the same commitment to serving and supporting those around me. His example taught me the importance of compassion, responsibility, and leading by example.

Working for the City of Auburn allows me to serve the community in so many different ways, and it truly brings me so much joy. I am grateful to be part of a team that makes a positive impact every day and honored to contribute to a city that means so much to me.

POLICE SPOTLIGHT

Chief Chris Hodge

Chief Chris Hodge has served as the City of Auburn's Chief of Police for more than eight years and brings over 30 years of experience in law enforcement and security to the department. His extensive career reflects a deep commitment to public safety, leadership, and service to others.

Chief Hodge holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice and Health Sciences. His education, combined with decades of hands-on experience, has shaped his thoughtful and steady approach to leadership within the Auburn Police Department.

He resides in Winder, Georgia with his wife, Natalie, and the two have been married for 30 years. Together, they have three children—Crystal, Christian, and Camden—who are all grown and pursuing their own paths in life.

Before beginning his career in law enforcement, Chief Hodge attended Augusta University on a baseball scholarship, where he earned recognition as a First Team All-American. He went on to play two years of independent professional baseball following college. Later in his career, Chief Hodge spent seven years living and working in Afghanistan, conducting counterintelligence interviews for the U.S. military—experience that further strengthened his leadership, discipline, and global perspective.

Chief Hodge is unapologetically Christian and views serving the citizens of Auburn not simply as a job, but as a calling. His faith, integrity, and dedication continue to guide his service and leadership, making a lasting impact on both the Auburn Police Department and the

UPDATE FROM LAST MONTH

In last month's newsletter, the City of Auburn shared exciting news about the addition of Police Recruit Abigail Thompson and the appointment of Don Black as the Auburn Police Department's new Training Coordinator. We are pleased to provide an update on both as they continue to strengthen the department and enhance public safety for our community.

Recruit Thompson has officially begun her journey at the police academy and is now approximately one month into her several-month training program. During this time, she is receiving intensive instruction in law enforcement fundamentals, physical training, and classroom education designed to prepare her to serve as a certified, professional police officer. Her commitment and dedication during this early phase reflect Auburn's high standards and investment in developing well-trained officers who are ready to serve the community with integrity and professionalism.

At the same time, Auburn's new Training Coordinator, Don Black, has been formally sworn in and has begun his role with the department. With extensive experience in law enforcement training, Coordinator Black is focused on building a comprehensive training program that emphasizes preparedness, accountability, and continual professional development. His leadership is already helping position the Auburn Police Department as one of the most well-trained departments in the region.

Together, the progress of Recruit Thompson and the leadership of Training Coordinator Black highlight Auburn's ongoing commitment to proactive policing, officer development, and community safety. These efforts ensure that the City of Auburn Police Department remains dedicated to providing the highest level of service to the citizens it proudly serves.

Auburn Public Works: Keeping the Streets Safe During the Ice Storm

Dedication of Our Crew Shines Brightly

When winter weather threatened road conditions this past weekend, the City of Auburn's Roads Crew was already hard at work. Crews began pretreating roadways on Saturday and remained on duty through Sunday and into Monday to ensure streets stayed safe and passable for residents.

While many were able to remain at home, these employees chose to stay on the job—often working long hours and spending time away from their families—to protect the traveling public. Their commitment ensured that essential travel could continue and that residents could move about the city as safely as possible during potentially hazardous conditions.

This level of dedication is a clear reflection of the pride Auburn's Roads Crew takes in their work. Their willingness to respond quickly, remain on standby, and see the job through—regardless of inconvenience or personal sacrifice—demonstrates a strong sense of duty and service to the community.

The City of Auburn is grateful for the professionalism and commitment shown by our Roads Crew. Their actions over the weekend serve as a glowing example of public service and underscore their unwavering commitment to keeping Auburn moving, even when conditions are challenging.

Thank you!

"Our roads crew put the needs of our citizens first by working through the weekend to keep Auburn's streets safe. Their dedication and commitment to public service make me incredibly proud of this team."

Upcoming Road Repairs

Road Improvements Underway Across Auburn

The City of Auburn is preparing for a major round of roadway improvements that will take place across the city in the coming months. These efforts include both large-scale paving projects and in-house pothole and asphalt patching, all aimed at improving safety and extending the life of Auburn's streets.

Several road projects have already been approved, and additional paving projects are currently being presented for approval. In the meantime, Auburn's Public Works crews are actively completing in-house patching on non-subdivision streets throughout the city, addressing pavement failures and safety concerns as they arise.

Roadway improvements are funded through LMIG (Local Maintenance & Improvement Grant) and TSPLOST (Transportation Special Purpose Local Option Sales Tax), allowing the City to invest in critical infrastructure while responsibly using public funds.

When viewed together, these projects represent a citywide effort to improve driving conditions for residents and visitors. The City appreciates the public's patience as this important work moves forward.
